

BERGER UNIVERSITY

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Interview Style Responses

PART I: Select three of the following and take notes for yourself.

1. Most significant personal event/incident in your life:
2. The most amusing event in your life:
3. The greatest learning experience/incident in your life:
4. The most important person in your family:
5. The most important person NOT in your family:
6. The most important person in history:
7. The character from literature you'd most like to meet:
8. The most important change you've made in your life:
9. The most significant event in history:
10. The biggest hope/dream/goal for yourself:
11. The biggest hope/dream/goal for the world:
12. The most important NON-school teacher in your life:
13. The most significant idea you've encountered:
14. The most embarrassing moment in your life:
15. The most important writer:
16. Your most important achievement:
17. The most important lesson you've learned:
18. The kindest person you've met:
19. The most important class you've taken:
20. The greatest challenge you've faced:
21. The most important value you hold:
22. The most important book you have read:
23. The best piece of advice you have received:
24. The invention you would most like to develop or see developed:
25. Your most important nonacademic interest:
26. The word that best describes you:
27. What you'd most like to be remembered for from your first 18 years of life:
28. Your favorite piece of music:
29. The most important advice you would give a high school freshman:
30. The best job you have ever had:

PART II: Record a video (MyLearning video or mp4) answering the questions as if you were sitting for an interview. Dress appropriately for on-camera viewing. Pick a non-distracting place to record (sound and background images). Watch your sound quality as well. Play back the video before submission to make sure it's what you want me to see. Submit on MyLearning.

Don't wait until the last minute to upload. If your video isn't submitted BY the due date, you will be 'wait listed' for admissions.